Miles and miles of sandy beaches overlooking the azure blue Tyrrhenian Sea, with a backdrop of mountains and green countryside.

Like so many in this region, this charming little town perches on top of a cliff giving wonderful views up and down the coast and out onto the azure blue Tyrrhenian Sea. On a clear day you can see the erupting volcano on Stromboli and even as far as Sicily.

Lush green vegetation covers the mountainside behind the town providing lovely walks for the more energetic, and it is just a short drive away from the mountainous peaks of the Sila National Park where skiing enthusiasts are well catered for.

The reliable Italian railway runs the full length of the country and provides connections to the better known northern cities and to Sicily in the south.

Traditional Italian and Calabrese restaurants are numerous, as are the cafés, bars and shops. An endless supply of pastries, chocolate and amazing ice cream.

We can arrange

- For you to be collected and returned to the airport
